

Knowing your construction site complies with construction requirements is a core concern for owners, developers, managers and contractors. Having an independent unbiased opinion with attendant advice and recommendations will assist your construction site stay on track.

Compliance Construction Site

The down side of non-compliance has serious time and cost implications with scrutiny coming from regulatory authorities, neighbours, unions and other interested parties.

True to our approach to assist employers proactively manage workplace safety risks whilst encouraging compliance, we discuss issues and concerns with the contractor, their employees and subcontractors and offer advice and recommendations.

Service description - Our Compliance, Construction Site service assists owners, developers, managers and contractors achieve safety compliance with construction site requirements by detailed inspection, assessment and advice.

Service details - We liaise with consultants and contractors, attend site and conduct unappointed compliance inspections of contractor activities.

We assess activities against our Occupational Health & Safety Compliance Report, Construction Site that is consistent with AS 4801 and AS 14001, issue notices and take actions as required or where immediate risk to people and property is observed when on site.

At each inspection we provide our client a written report and recommendations regarding the contractors current and planned activities.

How the service works - After being engaged, we plan our inspection program to span the project duration but aim to inspect site at critical risk stages. Inspections are unappointed and randomly scattered through the week.

At site we inspect the entire site and site documentation. The compliance level is assessed and rated. We write up our Compliance Report at site, provide the contractor with a rated copy and later forward our client a Recommendation with the original rated Compliance Report.

Fisher Jenkin Workplace Safety encourages and assists employers proactively manage workplace safety risks whilst achieving compliance with obligations and responsibilities that employers must embrace in today's business environment.

Please contact our head office or nearest franchise for personal, positive and professional attention to your workplace safety needs.